

What Is Claimed Is:

1. An electrical connection between two electrically conductive surfaces, said connection comprising an electrically conductive resin extending between and contacting both said surfaces, and an electrodeposit coating at least a portion of said electrically conductive resin.